The Tacoma-Pierce County Opportunities Industrialization Center (TPOIC) unvelied their plan to help reduce unemployment in Pierce County to over 125 guests recently at the Esquire Restaurant. The occasion was a get-acquainted reception to introduce TPOIC executive director Curtis Palmore and to meet the board of directors.

OIC is a very successful national job training organization with 140 offices in 48 states and over 4,000 employees. Founded by Rev. Leon A. Sullivan in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1904, they have trained an interracial cross-section of over 300,000 people and placed about 250,000 on jobs. One-third of whom were formerly on welfare. The key to their success is being community based.

At the get-acquainted reception the guests included people from business, labor, government, Tacoma's minority community and OIC's regional and national offices. Tacoma's vice-mayor Jack Warnick and a few council members were also on had to learn about the OIC concept. Visiting OIC officials were Leroy Williams, Project Officer OIC America, William Lynn, N.W. Regional Director, Henry Beauchamp, Executive Director-Yakima, and Jim Williams, Executive Director-Seattle.

Each office is independently incorporated and locally controlled. Training programs are tailored to meet local needs. TPOIC's board of directors is made up of a cross-section of local people. They include Chairman Rev. William G. Mitchell, C. J. Ollee, Ruby Gray, Martin Brazier, Rev. Robert Davis, Mike Flick, Tom Hilliard, Genevieve Tucker, Rev. T. L. Westbrook, and Bill Gilven. Their duty is to set policy and give direction to the local office and its employees.

In an interview, Executive Director Curtis Palmore said that the Pierce County unemployment rate is about 3% above the 7.7% national rate. He said that statistics show how badly this area needs the experience, training programs and back-up of an OIC.

The unique training program offers its trainees a positive alternative. In addition to learning job skills, each trainee is given help in developing a realistic picture of job expectations, a positive self-image, and good personal communication skills. They also learn how to shop for good buys, manage their income and job interview skills. Courses last from 5-6 weeks, depending on individual performance and ability. This pre-training is called The Feeder Program.

The establishment of the local OIC office is the result of the concentrated effort of an interest group of over 40 people who spent more than a year paving the way. The office is located at 1712 6th Ave. near the intersection of 6th Ave., Sprague and Division near KFC. The phone number is 272-0386.

DAFFODIL QUEEN TO RECEIVE TROPHY

The Queen is often thought of as being a wife or widow of a King, a woman eminent in female monarch rank, power or attractions, or as a goddess or thing personified as female and having supremacy in a specific realm. Ms. Glenn, the Daffodill Queen of 1977 may not fit into all the categories, such as "widow of a King" etc., but she certainly has the other qualities and deserves all other attributes that one would attach to a Queen. To show their affections and appreciations, the "Black Forum," a local organization in Tacoma, will present her gracious majesty with a trophy on April 22, 1977 at 7 PM. The ceremony will be held at Harry Q's Restaurant located at 1519 So. Broadway in Tacoma.

Heroic quintet represents FL in Legion of Valor

AP (Ranger) by S/Sgt. JAMES ARWINE

The newly promoted company commander was leading his men on a search and clear operation in the jungle near the South Vietnamese village of Quang Ngai when they were hit by a smashing attack.

His unit, Co B, 1st Bn, 46th Inf of the 198th Light Infantry Brigade, and a cavalry troop, had unnested a battalion of North Vietnamese regulars.

Rockets, and fire from recoilless rifles, automatic weapons and small arms rained on the Americans. The first barrage hit several armored personnel carriers.

Quickly regrouping his unit, the captain led a counterattack. He saw an enemy soldier jump into a trench, and charged and killed him with a hand grenade. Then machine gun fire opened up on a flank. He was painfully wounded by shrapnel, but refused treatment and charged the hostile position.

This time he threw a grenade that eliminated three North Vietnamese and made it possible for his men to continue their advance. Moving again through machine gun fire, he helped carry out wounded and supervised their evacuation. When contact was broken he set up a night position. Finally, after security was established, he had his own wounds treated.

This action took place Sept. 13, 1968. The captain is now a major, Roger Dimsdale, 9th Inf Div assistant G-1. He wears the Distinguished Service Cross and is one of five reported members here of the Legion of Valor.

Dimsdale and his legion companions, Medal of Honor winner, 1st Sgt. Delbert Jennings, 525th Repl Co., and DSC winners, 1st Lt. Eldon A. Bargewell, Co B, 2-75th Rangers, 1st Sgt. William Lawrence, Co A, 2-2d Inf, and Sgt. 1/c Ruben Ford, Co B, 2-2nd Inf, will celebrate the organization's 87th anniversary April 23.

On that date in 1890 men who had earned the Medal of Honor in the Civil War and Indian Campaigns established the Medal of Honor Legion in Washington, D.C. The title was changed in 1918 to Army and Navy Legion of Valor when soldiers awarded the newly-created Distinguished Service Cross were admitted membership. The present name was adopted in 1961, when Congress approved membership in the Legion of Valor for Air Force Medal of Honor and Air Cross recipients.

Maj. Dimsdale, a former member of the Legion's national board, said there will be no formal meeting here. Members (they refer to each other as companions) gather socially, but it takes five to form a chapter. Usually no more than four or five Valor companions are on duty at Fort Lewis.

First Sgt. Jennings is the only Medal of Honor holder on post. He was a staff sergeant with Co C, 1st Bn (Abn), 12th Cav, part of the 1st Air Cav Div, in 1966. His unit was defending an artillery position in Vietnam's Kim Song Valley. On Dec. 27, a regiment of North Vietnamese attacked their perimeter.

Jennings sprang into his bunker, which lay astride the main attack route, and slowed up the onrushing enemy. He killed a crew that was about to blow up a nearby howitzer, and killed three more soldiers at his bunker.

Ordering his men into a secondary position, he covered their withdrawal, killing one attacker with his rifle butt. In the next few minutes he killed at least a dozen more enemy soldiers.

Jennings then exposed himself to fire while organizing the new defensive position and then led a team of volunteers past booby traps to recover eight wounded Americans who would have died without quick treatment. All eight were brought out.

DSC winners Bargewell, Lawrence and Ford were cited for similar heroic actions against heavy odds in South Vietnam. Despite wounds, they braved storms of bullets to organize defenses and counterattacks until the battles were won.

"K" STREET DEVELOPMENT - OR???

The "K" Street area has declined in business since 1965. There has been a change of pace, attitudes, clientele, etc., since 1965. The causes for such deterioration is not at all clear, but there is strong correlation between the construction of the Tacoma Mall, emerging discout department centers, vicinity buying power, 1969 riots in the area and the decadence of "K" Street and surrounding areas. As a result of riots, several merchants left the district and this combined with the image of violence in the area, contributed to a sudden decline of commercial establishments.

The impact of Tacoma Mall and department store centers has been slower, but "K" Street merchants have not become competitive through use of new merchandising techniques or suctomer conveniences such as adequate off-street parking and easy accessibility to stores. Although these reasons may have some influence on the declinational process, it can not be concluded that these are the only reasons. Since 1965, there has been several other changes which may have caused this "pick-up-and-run" attitude by businesses and residents in the surrounding area. Since 1965, residents of the area decided that this was not the best place to live and went on to other areas. This move by some, left vacant slots for others. There was a shift from the downtown area by both business and residents to the so-called "hilltop area." Along with them, they brought their attutudes and behavior patterns. This movement can be seen as a "leap-frog method." With new attitudes and behavior "K" Street and the surrounding area may get the attention necessary to bring about--not change--but progress.

According to a report from a reliable source, "many low-income people who are not highly mobile live in the area, and it must provide the goods and services they need for subsistance. Washington's Involuntary Committment law has meant the release of large numbers of mental patients to the community, and Tacoma has acquired the lion's share of these due to the proximity of Western State Hospital and the services available for these people in the "K" Street or "hilltop area."

There needs to be a closer look at the possible causes and all factors involved in the decadence of the "K" Street and surrounding area.

TEE AND TURF GOLF CLUB NEWS
By Morgan Giles

Once again Mother Nature provided us with good weather and the good golfers of the Tee and Turf Golf Club made good use of it. We played at Meadow Park Golf Course. Now there are some that liked it and others well---but it's one thing for sure No. 13, 14, and 15 still make some golfers speak some funny language, ha-ha, and to add to all that misery they put some O. B's out there. How about that? Hey Gang, we still don't know why Ed shot such a good score at Brookdale, but we know one thing for sure, it was not his green pants. Above all of the O. B. and tall trees we still turn in some good scores. Player of the Week goes to Mr. Goodlow with a low gross of 78. Hang in there Goodie. Also for low net was our Man of the Hour, Mr. Champ Smith. How about it Champ? This weekend we played blind partners and some of them were blind. The winners were like this:

1st Ridgeway & Goodlow A tie	2nd Douglas & A. Cunningham
3rd Bullitt & Wansley Turner & C. Smoth	4th S. Arrington & Owens

Hold it, that's not all --there were two more winners --two outstanding players. You guessed it--Giles and Porter. How do you like that? Hats off again gang for Mrs. Drummond and Mrs. Shepard for standing out there in that weather with the golf balls, but this week they didn't take so many back with the. Next week we play again at Capitol City and need I say more, with all those O. Bs and sand traps, I am looking forward to it. Now all of you that have not signed up to play call before Friday night at midnight. JUST A REMINDER---we are still going to Portland so call Mr. Carrington and let him know. Tee time for Capitol City is 10:00AM. See you on the 1st tee.
